FROM A PARENT

“As a parent, I appreciate your immediate response to the COVID-19 outbreak. On-campus testing and isolation of positive testing students in private rooms are critical to eradicating the spread of this pandemic. Thank you doctors, nurses and the medical team at McCosh for your dedication to our students at Princeton University.”

FROM A STUDENT

“Being a virtual Princeton University student had been challenging, at times. I am so appreciative for the behavioral health support I received from McCosh through its Proto-call program. I was able to speak with a health care professional 24-7, even though I was studying remotely. Thank you for you unending support.”
Welcome to the 120th Annual Meeting of The Auxiliary to the Isabella McCosh Infirmary. As the campus rose to the challenge of meeting its academic mission during the COVID-19 pandemic, The Auxiliary has remained focused on our mission: to sustain high quality health care and increase awareness of health services among students and parents. Together with UHS, we stood by the health needs of our students, no matter where they were located. Today we again assemble virtually via Zoom to meet our constitutional requirements.

Let me summarize the last year. Princeton elected to continue fully remote education in September due to rising infection and positivity rates over the summer of 2020. UHS provided tele-health for medical and behavioral issues to students across the nation and around the globe. Our Athletic Trainers pivoted into a COVID role of campus public health education, and staffed surveillance testing for those on campus more than 8 hours per week.

The horizon for gathering the University Community brightened as COVID vaccines won approval in the fall and a new, dedicated CLIA-certified testing lab was fitted out in Guyot to expedite surveillance test results. On November 24, President Eisgruber invited everyone back to campus for the Spring Term under strict COVID protocols. As students returned, Athletic Trainers continued to support the campus-wide testing effort, while the Health Center tested symptomatic students, did contact-tracing and enforced quarantines. Counseling and Psychological Services received emergency funding for more staff to address a dramatic rise in mental health issues. And finally, joyfully, some Trainers resumed more typical duties when a few athletic teams were granted permission for a short, restricted-competition spring season.

The Auxiliary’s ability to make multi-year commitments proved invaluable to our students. Proto-Call, the 24/7 telephonic behavioral health line funded by The Auxiliary since 2018 was literally a life-ring for many students world-wide. Our many previous purchases for UHS’s computer technology infrastructure provided the flexibility for UHS staff to work together across units, remotely, to benefit our students. The Special Needs Fund continued to provide support, regardless of student location (the University Health Plan provides health coverage for students world-wide.) Although the Parents’ Suite remained unused, we look forward to the day it can again open its doors.

In other news our mailing schedule, which is normally not news-worthy, adapted to the peculiar dynamics of the year. The Parents’ Brochure is a unique, invaluable guide to UHS resources sent out in the fall. It promotes health awareness for students and their families. It earned special permission to go out early in the Spring Term, after the re-entry. Our quarterly board meetings continued via Zoom. In October, we heard from Irini Daskalaki, M.D. The Physician Coordinator for Global and Community Health, Irini shared specific invaluable insights about the pandemic and her major role on campus directing the COVID response. In January, we met with University Architect Ron McCoy and associates. We discussed The Auxiliary’s Winter Garden in the new UHS building, and exchanged thoughts about uses, layout, and plantings to offer comfort to students, especially those from different climates. The building is still on schedule for occupancy 2024. In April, Charles Thompson, Head Athletic Trainer, joined us from the practice-field sidelines to provide perspective on active athletics under COVID protocols.

To conclude, today I welcome our newest member Karen S. Ali, Esq. ’78 elected a year ago; and regret to report the resignation of Pamela Klebanov *89, S*86, P16, P20 whose energy, insight and Hawaiian outlook on life will be much missed.

As I conclude my fifth year as your president, I am continually grateful for the advice and support of our senior members, and the energy and enthusiasm of our junior members as they gain experience and perspective on a storied Princeton organization.

Respectfully submitted,

Dorothy Bedford
President

FROM PRINCETON UNIVERSITY
PRESIDENT CHRISTOPHER EISBRUBER

“We believe that it is especially important to exercise caution at the beginning of our new semester, when we have a large influx of people arriving from outside the highly protective conditions that exist at the University,” President Eisgruber told students in his welcome back address.
Greetings from the McCosh Health Center. When I last wrote, COVID had not yet turned the world upside down. As the campus emptied in March 2020 and remained so for Fall Term, UHS entered an unforeseen scenario. Maintaining student health and well-being required diligence, ingenuity, grit, extraordinary dedication and excellent communication amongst our staff, campus and community partners, and public health authorities. The flexibility and perseverance shown by each member of the UHS staff has been extraordinary. As the campus community reassembles, we can reflect on that journey and other accomplishments of 2020-21. There is news to share about our re-accreditation as an Ambulatory Health Facility; our continuing efforts to address issues of diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI); theater as therapy; and a notable staff transition.

Despite pandemic stresses, UHS earned re-accreditation from the Accreditation Association for Ambulatory Health Care. Since 1982, UHS has undergone a triennial, extensive, voluntary self-assessment conducted by on-site surveyors. Across 31 “chapters,” our staff re-examined UHS’ proficiency in meeting AAAHC requirements and reviewed UHS policies for compliance. The QPI team conducted mock surveys to ensure readiness for the March 2021 survey. The result — UHS performed extremely well and received its latest renewal of AAAHC accreditation.

COVID demanded an all-hands response. UHS enjoyed the benefit of campus-wide expertise and assistance, including supplementary resources granted by the Provost’s Office. The pivot to telehealth in March 2020 required intensive coordination with, and application development by IT and extensive staff training, all within a super-condensed timeframe. As the pandemic evolved, IT’s continuing efforts were critically important, 24/7. At one point, telehealth visits comprised nearly half of all patient encounters in Medical Services. At CPS, new procedures were developed to attend to (remote) student emergencies. Modifications/improvements in coverage were swiftly introduced to the Student Health Plan to ensure the best possible access for students everywhere.

Key to our successful on-campus COVID protocols was the massive effort put into asymptomatic testing of the entire University community, via sophisticated RT-PCR molecular analysis processed at a dedicated campus lab opened in November. The redeployment of Athletic Trainers was essential to the success of testing and contact-tracing efforts, along with the massive effort of HPPS in collaboration with Global and Community Health and the Office of Communications to create an integrated system of COVID-related communication. At the height of testing, over 33,000 results/month were delivered via e-mail from COVIDTests@princeton.edu. Over time, the website COVID.princeton.edu emerged as the central host for everything COVID.
Our ongoing efforts to address diversity, equity and inclusion were heightened as the nation reckoned with its history of racism. In last year’s letter, I mentioned “thriving.” Thriving is not just about health, but also about cultural inclusiveness and respect as it applies to each member of the campus community in every aspect of their lives, whether student, faculty, or staff. Every unit within UHS has deeply engaged in departmental, institutional and community level efforts to combat systemic racism through acknowledgment, discussion, and relevant change. We are continuously looking internally at identifying and mitigating bias in all areas of our health system, including direct patient care, hiring practices, interpersonal relationships with staff, health promotion practices and QPI. Our focus is to advance health care equity by addressing disparities at the point of care, and to impact many of the determinants that create these disparities.

You may recall that mental health issues have mushroomed on campus since 2016, straining CPS’s resources (which expanded during the pandemic). This year, CPS and TigerWell collaborated in a multi-departmental project with McCarter Theater to deliver a virtual production, The Manic Monologues, in February. Conceived and produced at Stanford University in 2019, McCarter’s version recruited additional stories from Princeton students. The production earned a prestigious Drama League Award nomination in the Outstanding Digital Theater, Collection or Festival category. You may watch at https://www.mccarter.org/manicmonologues.

Final updates: The UHS building remains on schedule to open in 2024, incorporating Eno Hall. Design work on the 70,000 sq.ft. building (four floors) is almost complete, with a stand-alone but contiguous pavilion. The Auxiliary played a quiet role in nudging the latter into existence. It meets the need for a flexible, medium-size space to accommodate multiple presentation formats. I want to introduce UHS’ new Medical Director — Melissa Marks ’86, M.D., who arrived in June 2020. Melissa earned her M.D. at Johns Hopkins and joins us from Greater Baltimore Medical Center, a community health organization. She has special expertise in the interface between the medical and mental health problems of young adults.

We are deeply grateful to The Auxiliary to the Isabella McCosh Infirmary for their generous, ongoing support towards maintaining a healthy Princeton community.

Regards,

Janet Finnie ’84 P22 MBA MSW

FROM A STUDENT

"COVID-19 testing was provided for by the University. The process was efficient; members of the staff were exceptional. Thank you, Health Care Heroes, for all that you do for the Princeton University students!"
The current multi-year commitment (out of certain endowment accounts) to fund the Winter Garden component of the new UHS building limits our ability to entertain new UHS requests until 2024. Stuart and Hibben Funds income plus annual contributions remain available to us. Nevertheless, your previous gifts and the Auxiliary’s on-going commitments continue to benefit students and provide UHS support in real time.

Counseling and Psychological Services. The Auxiliary currently funds “Proto-call,” which provides access after-hours to certified behavioral health professionals via telephone. It supplements McCosh Health Center’s 24/7 on-call counseling staff. Proto-Call has been extremely valuable to students during the pandemic and is available world-wide (multi-year commitment).

In 2018 we provided pilot funding for “Kognito At-Risk for Students,” an on-line behavioral health awareness education/coaching program. Now funded by the University, it became a required element of FYRE (First Year Residential Education.)

Special Needs Fund. As always, The Auxiliary stands by students with emergency needs (insurance co-pays, glasses, medical devices, etc.) up to $300 per request.

Lab Fees. Most lab fees are now covered by students’ insurance, but The Auxiliary continues to pay for point-of-care testing and certain tests of a sensitive nature.

Athletic Medicine. Therapeutic Hot/Cold Spa Tub replacement. In November 2016, the spa tub in the athletic trainers’ suite (Caldwell Field House) broke down for good. This loss was material to students’ rehabilitation progress. The cost of a new tub was $150,000, which the administration apportioned among Facilities, the Athletic Department and UHS. On short notice, UHS was able to count on The Auxiliary for its share. The tub installed in 2018 is a twin spa (hot and cold). A cold tub is a key element of treating emergent exertional heat illness, a dangerous and not uncommon ailment during pre-season practices held in August.

Technology Support. In 2018-19, UHS requested funds to extend the medical data management platform (“Medicat”) from Medical Services to care providers across all UHS divisions. The extension improved care integration for student patients. This upgrade proved critical to successful delivery of tele-health services during the pandemic. The Auxiliary regularly provides funds for UHS technology hardware and software.

Infirmary/Inpatient Amenities. In keeping with the times, in 2018 we purchased bedside lamps with USB ports to charge students’ cellphones and other devices, and replaced window treatments.

Volunteer Program. Typically, The Auxiliary provides on-campus assistance to the staff at University Health Services. We greet and direct students, faculty and staff at the annual FluFest, where thousands are immunized. We organize and host the Health Center Open House at Reunions.
