Our Mission

The mission of the Auxiliary to the Isabella McCosh Infirmary is to support Princeton University Health Services by:

Increasing awareness of health services available on campus

Stewarding funds from Auxiliary endowments and other donations to improve the health and well-being of the students

Raising funds from parents and other friends

Working with the staff to promote high quality services and create an atmosphere of care and support in all health related areas

Inspired by the example of Isabella Guthrie McCosh, the visionary wife of Princeton University's eleventh president, James McCosh, the Auxiliary has played a key role in fostering the growth and enhancing the quality of student healthcare since its formation in 1902. The Auxiliary oversaw the design and funded the construction of McCosh Infirmary (now McCosh Health Center), which opened in 1925. For decades, its members have contributed immeasurably to all aspects of student health, not only through advocacy and fundraising but also through their compassionate support of generations of Princetonians. To the present day, the Auxiliary generously sustains the work of University Health Services while championing the larger cause of student well being. It thus continues to transform Mrs. McCosh's prophetic vision of the vital role of health in learning into a lived reality for every Princeton student, both now and in the future.

— Non-ministrari, sed ministrare.

The McCosh Rose

Early in the 20th century a tradition was established to place a fresh rose in the Infirmary on a table in front of the portrait of Isabella McCosh. To revive this custom in a more practical manner, Carin Laughlin, long-time Auxiliary Board Member and President, created in 1989 a painting of a rose that hangs near the portrait.

President’s Report
116th Annual Meeting of the Auxiliary to the Isabella McCosh Infirmary of Princeton University

June 1, 2017

Welcome to the 116th Annual Meeting of The Auxiliary to the Isabella McCosh Infirmary. For over a century, The Auxiliary has partnered with University Health Services to maintain high quality health care and increase awareness of health services. Our financial support and volunteer hours help make McCosh Health Center more welcoming, cheerful and effective for students, parents and staff. Our funds provide for purchases of specialized equipment and software, Web design services, professional journal subscriptions, and exceptional staff training/travel opportunities. We are as traditional as fresh flowers, hand delivered by the Garden Committee, and as up-to-date as providing USB ports in new bedside lamps. Concluding my first year as President, I am grateful for the steady guidance and sure advice of president emerita Karen Fuchs.

As you know, our efforts are measured both in volunteer time and dollars allocated. FY 2017 was a relatively quiet year. First, in terms of time, the Meningitis B outbreak is now behind us. The multiple full-day vaccination clinics, to which the Auxiliary Board volunteered hundreds of hours, have shrunk to a few hours. The humor in the hour of adversity? Vaccinated students sporting lapel buttons proclaiming, “I stuck it to the Meng!”

Second, in terms of dollars, the Health Center’s clinical space began a complete renovation in June 2016. The Auxiliary contributed $151,000, our entire FY2017 endowment income distribution in a single gift. This money paid for the fit-out of three exam rooms, complementing prior commitments ($39,500) for related new furnishings and two “stretcher chairs.” In acknowledgement, doorway plaques will be installed. Students and staff seem extremely pleased with the results. To showcase the renovations, UHS and The Auxiliary will co-host the first Health Center Reunions Open House on June 2, based in our new Auxiliary parlor, off the main entrance. The space features a beautiful Auxiliary commemorative wall fixture in etched glass, and the portrait of Isabella McCosh by noted 19th century artist John W. Alexander. Some students and staff affectionately refer to it as “Izzy’s Den.”

Throughout the renovation gift discussion, The Auxiliary Board remained resolutely committed to both the Special Needs Fund and supporting the costs of standard lab tests, ensuring that sufficient funds were held in reserve. By February 28, 2017, the initial Special Needs allocation of $20,000 was down nearly 75%, helping 79 students with 129 transactions. In April, the Board granted another $15,000 to ensure adequate resources through the summer months. Clinical tests were initially allocated $45,000 which at this time seems adequate to complete the year. The five year agreement for us to fund the standard lab tests from Hibben Fund income is up for review in FY 2018.
The Board stays abreast of campus health issues by hosting guest speakers from UHS and other offices at its quarterly meetings. In April, for the first time, we met at Jadwin Gym and toured Caldwell Field House to see Athletic Medicine’s facilities. We inspected our prior purchases, and the lively talk and candid comments from Head Trainer Charles Thompson were invaluable.

Looking ahead, several challenges face The Auxiliary. Two consecutive requests for large commitments (as part of UHS facilities projects) have arrived at the very beginning of the fiscal year. This is a growing concern to the Board; by locking up large amounts, such projects reduce our ability to respond to mid-year requests related to needs or opportunities arising in a shorter time-frame. In addition to the Health Center renovation gift, Athletic Medicine submitted a request in May to commit $45,000 in FY2018 for a new therapeutic twin-basin spa tub (about 33% of the total cost). Informed by the April visit to Caldwell, we approved this request earlier today, but that amount is nearly 33% of our endowment income, when other smaller requests are already backlogged from FY2017.

Second, fall term of 2016 saw a steep increase in demand for Counseling and Psychological Services. Hard-won additions to CPS staffing will reduce wait times. But, until larger issues of space allocation at the Health Center can be resolved, CPS will borrow a room from the Parents’ Suite. While disappointing, an office for direct therapy services to students must take priority over visitors. One room with private bath remains available to parents.

Third, post-renovation, our McCosh Garden now attracts attention from the Clinic’s main corridor, whose windows overlook the cheerful green space. The Garden Committee hopes to coordinate any upcoming garden hardscaping/landscaping renovations with Janet Finnie and the Office of Buildings and Grounds.

Today we welcome our newest members Tess Kline and Matthew Morgan, elected in June 2016. Tess is a parent and medical malpractice attorney; Matthew is the 4th generation of Morgans on the Auxiliary Board.

Finally, I want to call out the Board’s committee chairs and Secretary Els Paine, who have served so steadily through the leadership transition; and also Janet Finnie, Director of UHS, who serves as our liaison. She cares deeply about health services at Princeton, and values the work we do to support its mission. Her quarterly reports to the board keep us informed of the activities and upcoming challenges at Health Services. Her openness to new Auxiliary initiatives, such as the Reunions Open House, was much appreciated as we consider ways to expand awareness of The Auxiliary’s mission and accomplishments.

Sincerely

Dorothy Bedford

President
University Health Services Report

July 2017

Over the past year, University Health Services’ (UHS) partnership with The Auxiliary to the Isabella McCosh Infirmary continues to stand strong. The Auxiliary funded three of the new clinical exam rooms built during the 2016 renovation of the first floor of McCosh Health Center. We are deeply grateful for these new exam rooms. Despite the physical disruptions, UHS was also able to move a number of other critical initiatives and projects forward, highlighted below.

Renovation: It had become apparent that UHS was serving students in an outdated and inadequate physical space. In 2015, work began to redesign the first floor’s medical service. Construction began in mid-2016; all services continued at alternate sites. Completed last fall, the project also restored the wood-paneled walls of the historic entryway lounge, complementing the modern design elements of the renovation. The lounge honors our century-old alliance with The Auxiliary.

CPS Outreach, and the Jed Foundation Partnership: For Counseling & Psychological Services (CPS), outreach is essential. This year, CPS facilitated 159 outreach events reaching 60% of the student community. Through education and by destigmatizing mental health issues, CPS outreach programs heighten awareness of, as well as willingness to seek treatment for, psychological concerns among students, staff and faculty. In partnership with the residential colleges, CPS inaugurated a 90 minute Orientation program, “Caring for Yourself and Others.” CPS also allied with the Jed Foundation Campus Program, a national organization encouraging best practices to enhance student health and well-being, mitigate substance abuse, and reduce suicide. With the Foundation’s support, CPS completed a self-survey and embarked on a strategic plan, which launched initiatives across the University. CPS developed a patient triage system to shorten wait times and enhance the assessment of student treatment needs at initial contact. New drop boxes collect discarded prescription medication; and University medical leave policies were clarified.

Establishment of the Health for Learning Committee, to advance the essential role of health and well-being in learning: In order to find new ways to help students succeed both in and out of the classroom, we have formed the Health for Learning Committee (HLC). The HLC is an interdepartmental group of UHS staff who are charged with elevating the level of discourse and understanding regarding the essential role of health in student learning.

Transgender Care: UHS has made major strides in services specific to our transgender student population. These efforts include improving insurance coverage, increasing staff diversity and inclusion trainings, and adding services specific to transition-related care. All UHS staff participate in professional development to expand expertise regarding transgender and/or gender nonconforming students and their concerns.

Diversity & Inclusion: UHS’ efforts to expand diversity, ensure inclusion and support health equity are focused in key areas: Managing Performance; Training & Competency Building; and Climate and Inclusive Culture. In Managing Performance, all staff have completed a comprehensive Quality Improvement training. An additional module, “Improving Health Equity,” included lessons on understanding health disparities, and initiatives to improve health equity for student patients. In Training & Competency Building, UHS provided in-house training programs related to diversity and inclusion such as “Trigger Warnings and Micro-aggressions”; staff also attended PU-wide offerings. With respect to Climate and Inclusive Culture, UHS strives to foster a climate characterized by compassion, engagement and teamwork. This year, the Executive Director and Director of UHS met with the Princeton University Hidden Minority (PUHM) leadership to discuss how we might better connect with PUHM and First Generation/Low Income (FLI) students. In addition, Dr. Calvin Chin organized a day-long conference: “Asian in America: Representation, Activism, and Mental Health Conference,” a landmark event. Gaps & Future Plans: Significant steps have been made, but gaps remain. To develop data-driven plans for further improvement in the area of diversity and inclusion, we plan to use Tableau software to help compare the diversity of patients we currently serve to the demographics of our campus community. This will help us monitor potential disparities in care and access, and reaffirm equity and access to diverse populations as a primary gauge of our success.

Quality Improvement: As mentioned above, the QI-department facilitates organizational quality improvement training for UHS staff. It works with UHS leaders to develop quality indicators at both the whole-system level and at the individual service level. As a result, we recorded significant improvements on QI proficiency and maturity. Nationally, Princeton’s QI received recognition at the Institute for Healthcare Improvement’s (IHI) National Forum on Quality Improvement (Orlando). We believe this is the first time a college health service has presented QI work at IHI. One study, on antibiotic stewardship, was also published in a prestigious “mainstream” medical journal, the British Medical Journal. A second QI study, on vaccinations, won the coveted “Best Poster” award conferred by IHI judges and conference attendees (most from primary and hospital care settings). The acceptance of our work by leaders in QI is an indicator that our program is highly functional, and making a positive impact on student health.

Among several other studies, one on Hand-Hygiene stands out (using strategies and principles recommended by the World Health Organization). It documented significant improvements in compliance with hand hygiene standards at UHS, as reported by our “secret shoppers”, the patients.

In conclusion, UHS continues to strive towards leadership in U.S. campus health. We compile data for self-assessment; conduct outreach activities with students, staff and faculty; and renew our vision every year. We look forward to many more years of partnership with The Auxiliary.

Sincerely

Janet Finnie

Recent Auxiliary Projects

Athletic Medicine
Allocations from the Auxiliary help to support Princeton University Athletic Medicine, a department of UHS. The following is a list of health-related equipment recently purchased for student athletes and the Athletic Medicine staff in McCosh Health Center, Caldwell Field House and Dillon Gym:

- Hot/Cold Spa Tub for Caldwell Athletic Training Room
- Vital Signs & Oxygen Saturation Diagnostic Equipment
- Measuring Stations (Scales)
- Wall-Mounted Redcord Workstation for Dillon PT Room
- 2 EKG machines and related supplies for Sports Physicals
- 4 LifeFitness GX bicycles for Caldwell and Dillon PT Rooms
- Toro Workman Utility Vehicle
- Travel Expenses to Concussion Symposium
- Ultrasound Training for Sports Medicine Physicians
- Shuttle MVP Exercise Equipment for Dillon Physical Therapy Room
- Two Netbooks for Athletic Trainers
- 2 Keiser Bicycles for Caldwell Field House
- Free Standing Modulator Tape Stations
- Electrical Stimulation Unit
- NK Table (used to strengthen the muscles around the knee)
- Digital Urine Refractometer (to assess dehydration)
- Hydrocollator Hot Pack Unit

Volunteer Program
The Auxiliary provides administrative support to University Health Services. The following are examples of ways the organization assisted on campus this year:

- Helped to direct freshman student-athletes through the health center during sports physical days at the beginning of the academic year.
- Provided personnel support at Meningitis B immunization clinics and the annual FluFest where thousands of students were immunized.
- Greeted alumni at McCosh Health Center during Reunions.

I am writing to express my deepest gratitude for the Auxiliary’s incredible help and generosity. This semester I found myself facing a large medical bill that I was unprepared to pay. It is an incredible gift to me not only to be relieved of this financial burden, but also to feel so supported and cared for. It is this sense of family that makes Princeton feel like home.”

University Health Services Partner

The Auxiliary partners with University Health Services to improve the health and well-being of Princeton University students:

- Delivering integrated medical, psychological, and preventive care in a culturally competent environment.
- Promoting and maintaining the physical and psychological health and wellness of the diverse populations of the Princeton University community we serve.

University Health Services Values

Compassionate care: Responding to patients with sensitivity and care and embracing differences and diversity among UHS staff members.

Service excellence: Providing exceptional services and focusing on being our campus’ center for health.

Collaborative spirit: Embracing collaboration with patients, staff, and other partners and advancing new ideas and effective solutions through teamwork and innovation.

Learning orientation: Valuing continual learning and embracing opportunities for professional development and growth. Promoting learning opportunities for students, staff, and faculty that enrich our understanding of the social, economic, and societal factors influencing health.
